man, and one who is in the habit of getting drunk, was exhonerated from the charges brought sgainst bim by alumni of the institution, two Democra's and one Republican, and one of the Democrate a minister of the gospel. The testimony was direct. It is commonly known that Profesor Latham's infinence on the University is bad. But he is a good Bourbon—the testi mony proves that conclusively—and the other good Bourbons of the faculty and the Board of Regents rallied round him. He remains, suffering no greater penalty trant to be told that while innocent he must not do it again.

The University is dying, and the people are paying well to have it raised in its last sad moments. Faw of last year's students are likely to return next year. There is no encouragement to lock for better things can, and one of the Damocrats a minister Regents are "scild" for the Democratic party. This is their way of keeping the party.

There is but one recourse. The people must throw over the party which to its other flagrant delinquencies in this State adds the destruction of the University. An institution that might confer great benefits are the nearly of the State is or the second of the state of the second of the state of the second of the state of the second o on the youth of the State is so disgracefully conducted that young men who respect themselves are leaving it, and parents who themselves are leaving it, and parents who have regard for the morals of their sons will not send them to it. These are not "Radical slanders;" they are facts to which honorable Democrats testily. It is a sorry spectacle.

The speaker pointed to a young man attired in a check suit, kersey hat, and a light kid gloves. "How should you imagine he made a living?"
"Well, possibly, that he had a competency in his own right, or that his parents were wealthy."
"H'm! That man is a water, and a mighty sharp one, too. I hired him once, but he was too sharp to suit me, and I let him go. I do not believe he works more than half the time, and the rest of the time he livee high and cuts a swell."

Why, I have known of his getting as high as $125 each for corks.
"What do you mean?"
"Why, don't you know? Some wine firms pay waiters in that way for pushing their wines. The foreign manniacturers and bottlers of champagne have adopted a system of branding the corks with their names and the quality of the wine in tha bottle, and if they are not bought for pushing the wine they bring a good price from manufacturers of domestic champagnes. Mis. Lavinia Clazzett, Captain of the Salvation Army of Brooklyn, in an intergriew with a New York Tribuac reporter, said: It is impossible to put down the Salvation Army by presecution. I have been in jail myself in Wheeling, W. Va., and many others of us have been arrected. We go into a town with scarcely sny money, collect what we can by plate, and trust for the remainder to Providence. A very weak mission gets help from the Central organization. They get it affirst, but how much attention do you suppose they pay to the brand they are drunking after they have had a few glasses? None whatever. The waiter supplies them with Bottle after bottle at $50 cach—miserable domestic stuff, which had one thim at the bar perhaps a quarter of that sum. He makes in another way, too.

A Hogus Heave.

"Ugh! mo heap big Pintel" The speaker was catenably an Indian brave, who had strayed away from his tribe, and was head off othem. He was on board a train at the Union depot just previous to its departure for Cheyenne from Denver, Col.

"Get out of this cai!" said the conductor.

"Ugh! me travel free."

"Not if I know myself," said the conductor, and taking the Pinte by the mape of the neck, j cited him. Then the brave lingered around the car and seemed more desirous than ever to board it and go to Cheyenne. Not wishing to have any trouble with the party, the conductor sent for officer Schalk of the Denver police.

The presence of a real live Indian warrior had attracted quite a large crowd around the depot, who looked at him and stared at him as only the cariously inclinate can store.

When the efficient are stare, when the efficient are stare, when the officer arrived the crowd was dispensed, and the Piute brave was taken to the police court. Upon a being ushered into the presence of his Honor the brave wilted. He was a base deception. He acknowledged it. Then the policeman began examining him.

Commencing at the head he removed a twig of long, attraight block hair, and there was displayed a cranium with a painful iluxuriance of baldness. His blanket was removed, and it revealed a blue shirt. No firearms were found. He wore Indian moccosins with leather leggings, under which was a pair of pants. A coose examination revealed the fact that red paint had been used extravagantly on the face and Daring the talk he said that he had a mother in Winona, Kas, to whom he had eent all his earnings, and exhibited a number of registered letter receipts. He also showed a letter from a Cheyenne sheep owner, who wanted him to go there and help shear his sheep. As proven by the letter and registered receipts his name was Julius W. Orth.

At this juncture the judge sent him to the wash-room and when he returned he presented quite a different appearance. His hair was inclined to be gray, a short, iron-gray heard was noticeable, and he looked to be a man of about 45 years and of Teutonic descent. HOR. JUDGE J. M.
